

Bleakley Sees New York Registration a Protest Against the New Deal

"Any Extraordinary Increase in Vote," He Says, Can be Attributed to Vote of Opposition; Sentiment is Strong.

NEWBURGH SPEECH

Spends Considerable Time Over Week-End Talking With Campaign Aides.

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP).—William F. Bleakley, Republican candidate for governor, interpreted the heavy New York city registration as a protest against the New Deal as he divided attention today between stumping and Columbus Day festivities of his home city.

The nominee explained that "any extraordinary increase in the vote—preponderantly Democratic in New York city—can be attributed to a vote of opposition."

"Feeling that the sentiment is strongly against the New Deal," he added, "I believe the registration indicates a greatly reduced Democratic majority."

At Newburgh Today

After a Sunday rest at his Yonkers home, Bleakley planned brief political speeches at nearby Nyack and Newburgh today while at the same time participating in a Yonkers Columbus Day parade and preparing a "non-political" talk for a homecoming rally here tonight.

Tomorrow, the Republican standard bearer will push his bid for votes into upstate territory with an extensive swing that calls for 41 speeches before he returns to Greater New York on October 24.

Bleakley gave considerable time over the week-end to discussion with his aides of the contents of the many speeches, particularly the talk he will give soon over a state-wide network relating to financial problems of the state.

Renewed attacks on communism, a subject which the nominee has thrust to the fore the past week, and further criticism of Governor Lehman and "the little New Deal" also are contemplated.

Feared Aids Assist

Aiding Bleakley in the speech drafting are Walter Brown, Orange county Republican chairman, and George Snell, long an aide of State Senator R. Feardon. The latter, defeated for the gubernatorial nomination, loaned Snell to the nominee for the duration of the campaign.

Thus far, the candidate has visited 12 upstate counties in addition to Nassau, Kings and Queens counties in Greater New York.

Bleakley and his party returned to Yonkers early yesterday morning after the candidate struck anew at what he termed politics in the Works Progress Administration.

He reiterated the charge that the WPA administration was "100 per cent political," and declared "no sensible man can escape the conclusion that there is a well planned and cleverly executed campaign to use the funds of the WPA to buy votes."

New Deal Indictments

"There have been many indictments against the New Deal," Bleakley continued. "In my mind none of them carries more weight than this proven charge that the administration is playing politics with the suffering and the misery of the victims of the depression."

"They have not received the money intended for them, and on the other hand the taxpayers, the rent-payers and the consumers have been robbed, in the name of charity, to make New Deal votes."

"The creation of this huge political army, paid for by the taxpayers, is one of the most sinister things that has ever happened in the history of the country."

At the same time, Bleakley took the opportunity while in the territory twice-devastated by floods within two years to disclose for the first time his stand on the problem of eliminating future floods.

He recommended "flood prevention" as the only fair method of dealing with the problem—a system of dams and artificial lakes, so that driving freshets and melting ice will be caught in giant reservoirs and remain under human control.

The nominee said the flood problem "must be divorced from all political considerations," and pledged that, if elected, he would "induce the Federal government to take immediate and direct action."

Columbus Sighted New World 444 Years Ago

By The Associated Press

At 2 o'clock in the morning just 444 years ago today a sailor named Rodrigo De Triana, standing watch in the bow of a little boat called the "Nina," whipped about in his tracks and yelled to his shipmates, "Land!"

Christopher, the eldest son of Domenico Colombo and Suzanna Fontanarossa, ran to the bow of the Santa Maria, one of the two sister ships of the Nina, and squinted his eyes westward.

It was, indeed, land. Columbus had come upon the New World after a voyage of 70 days from continental Europe.

Today, the anniversary of the date on which Columbus named his discovery "San Salvador," is celebrated as Columbus Day.

The "San Salvador" of that day was in the Bahamas, which lie about 1,250 miles south of Long Island. Columbus required 36 days to sail from the Canary Islands to the New World. The other day a German flying boat, mapping a proposed transatlantic commercial airplane route from Europe to America, flew from the Azores, 1,000 miles northwest of the Canary Islands, to Port Washington, Long Island, in 18 hours and 20 minutes.

Columbus proved for Ferdinand and Isabella, monarchs of Spain, the earth was round. Today, almost four and a half centuries later, the nation under whose flag he set forth to seek a westward route to Asia is torn by civil war. As in the days of Ferdinand and Isabella, the Moors tramp the soil of Spain under arms.

Columbus Day is observed as a public or legal holiday in 35 states of the Union, including New York.

City of Kingston Born 64 Years Ago

The Interesting Story of Struggles of Villages of Kingston and Roundout to Obtain Charter Set Forth in Series of Articles.

Kingston received its charter as a city in 1872, just 64 years ago, and believing that students of the early history of the city would be interested in the story of the early struggles of the villages of Roundout and Kingston to obtain the charter, H. L. Van Deusen, a staff writer, has written a series of articles under the general title "A City Is Born" which was made possible by a study of old newspaper clippings of those early days.

This series of articles which starts tomorrow outlines the steps taken by both villages and of the conflict between the two villages which was gradually overcome and the two villages united under the name of Kingston with a population of approximately 17,000. During the past 64 years the city has grown and today has a population of approximately 30,000.

The series opens with an account of the Roundout charter committee meeting in old Washington Hall, and follows with an account of the meetings of the Kingston charter committee. Other chapters relate the proceedings before the state legislature, the series closes with an account of the celebration that marked the granting of the charter by the governor of the state.

21 Killed in Japan

Fukushima, Japan, Oct. 12 (AP).—Twenty-one persons were killed, 22 seriously injured and many missing today in a gas explosion in a nearby coal mine.

Madrid, Oct. 12 (AP).—Workers' militiamen, spurred by their leaders to form a solid block of defense around the capital, fought Fascists stubbornly on northern, southern, eastern and western front today.

From Ollas Del Rey, on the Toledo-Madrid road, Socialist guns began an intense bombardment of Bargas, a little more than a mile across the highway.

In the south, an official report admitted a strong insurgent column had launched a drive on Hinojosa El Duque, in Cordoba province, but the high command said the attack had been repulsed.

Militiamen also were reported withstanding assaults on their concentrations in the Caspe and Alcañiz sectors on the Aragon front.

Dynamite throwing Asturian miners, fighting on within the northern city of Oviedo, captured several strategic positions and were trying to re-connect a circle around the city, broken by desperate Fascists at one point.

Strong government forces, holding stubbornly to mountain positions, repulsed insurgents attempting to gain control of the road between San Martin De Valdeiglesias and Madrid.

A few miles north, additional divisions of Socialist militiamen massed around Robledo De Chavala, awaiting renewal of the Fascist drive which forced them from Cerberos yesterday.

Drenched and shivering in the wintry wind, relief units poured into the government positions high in the Sierra De Guadarrama mountains.

Each man wore a raincoat, requisitioned from Madrid stores, over his overalls.

The haggard warriors attempting to block the surging Fascist advance struck out at insurgent columns around Navalperal De Pinares, Valdemaseca, and Casa Del Quejido.

Both sides were spurred to greater efforts to achieve victory to celebrate on Columbus Day. The government high command laid claim to domination of four-fifths of the insurgent stronghold of Oviedo.

The officers expressed hope the fall of the provincial capital before a concerted Socialist drive could be announced definitely before sunset.

In the capital, war preparations were taken over by a militia defense council which was attempting to coordinate activities between the Madrid defense units and front line divisions.

Rebels Await Order

Burgos, Spain, Oct. 12 (AP).—Massed in a solid line through mountainous country west of Madrid, insurgent troops looked ahead today for the order to march on the capital.

Fascist concentrations, especially heavy on the Avila and Toledo fronts, expected their commanders to set El Escorial and Navalcarnero as immediate objectives in the forthcoming advance.

The insurgent high command, encouraged by occupation of Cerberos, strategic mountain town which controls Madrid's electric power, expressed hope of dominating the capital within 10 days.

On the southern front, Fascist headquarters asserted, northward-marching columns occupied two towns approximately 20 miles northwest of Cordoba—Villaharta and Espiel.

The conquering insurgents labored to consolidate their positions around San Martin De Valdeiglesias as government bombing planes kept up a steady rain of bombs on the Fascist forces. The bombardment did slight actual damage, however, and the aerial attacks ceased under heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Three Fascist columns engaged Socialist militiamen in a heavily wooded valley three miles from San Martin to block a projected government drive to regain the city.

One force of insurgents met the Socialist troops head-on while two other columns swung flanking attacks from either side. The Socialist troops were tied up hopelessly, with little chance to advance and none to retreat.

The provisional government at Burgos took another step in its campaign against the Madrid administration by threatening legal action against purchasers who buy jewelry, art treasures and other valuable objects from Socialist supporters.

Local action will be brought, the Fascist officials warned, against purchasers not only in Spain but also in other countries. Those who buy from the Socialists will be barred from future trading with Spain—the provisional government asserted—after the Fascists seize control of the government.

Rainy Weather Halts Assault on Record For Gliders at Meenahga

Only Four of 15 Expected Sailplanes Arrive for Soaring Meet, And Only Two of These See Action Sunday.

PLACEK UP FIRST

New Jersey Birdman First in Air and Remains Up Two Hours, 23 Minutes.

Rainy weather, that Nemesis of soaring meets, put a damper on the three days soaring meet scheduled to start at the Mt. Meenahga soaring field, on the Shawangunk mountains opposite Ellenville, Saturday. As a result of the heavy rain Friday night and rain more or less all day Saturday, but four out of 15 ships that were to have been present showed up.

The owners of the other 11 ships were discouraged by the weather outlook and made no attempt to bring their ships to Ellenville.

Of the four that did come, only two got into action Sunday. One of the other two damaged a strut casting at Wurtsboro and the third was licensed for flying only at its home airport in New Jersey and could not compete at the meet unless properly licensed under the National Association rules.

The ship was taken to the field near Mt. Meenahga, but up to Sunday night no one had appeared, who was qualified to issue the necessary license.

The two remaining ships made flights on Sunday, but only one of them was left for possible duty today, the Placek brothers having returned with their ship to New Jersey after making a flight Sunday.

Landed in Cornfield

The damaged ship was put out of commission when it landed in a cornfield near the Wurtsboro airport. The pilot had stopped at the airport on his way to Ellenville, to do a bit of exhibition soaring. The field was slippery following the rain and the auto pulling the plane failed to give it sufficient start as a result of which it failed to attain sufficient altitude and the pilot was obliged to bring it down in a field covered with shocks of corn.

The broken casting was not a very serious matter, except that it could not be replaced at the time and the ship was put out of commission for the time being.

Although ships were lacking there were plenty of pilots on hand for the meet, which was sponsored by the Metropolitan Soaring Association and at which it was hoped, with favorable circumstances, to bring the distance record back to this country. The present record is 315 miles. Altogether about 50 pilots and ground crew members came to Ellenville Saturday. Most of them made their headquarters at hotels in the village, but some of the visitors went to Meenahga and took up quarters in the annex to the Mt. Meenahga House. Incidentally, it might be said that not all of the pilots have ships of their own, using ships belonging to other pilots, or that are owned by the various soaring groups represented, such as the North Jersey Soaring Association, the Airhoppers of New York the "Y" Flying Club of New Jersey and others.

No Distance Flights

With the skies overcast at times and frequent heavy clouds making for poor visibility, in addition to the fact that the wind, which was gusty, was mostly from the south or southwest, paralleling the mountains, no attempt at distance flights was made Sunday. A north of northwest wind, which would strike the mountains at right angles, is desirable in order to attempt distance, allowing the fliers to follow the upwings of the air currents along the mountain range and southwesterly into Pennsylvania.

Three flights were made Sunday. The first pilot to go up was William Placek of New Jersey. He took to the air at 11:02 and remained aloft until 1:25, for a total of two hours and 23 minutes. Placek flew at the last meet at Meenahga, at which time he was in the air one hour and 19 minutes. Placek was followed at 11:54 by Malcolm R. Schenot, who flew a ship belonging to the Airhoppers. He came down at 12:22, having been up 26 minutes. The third man to try his luck was George Casey, who soared for one hour and 17 minutes in the afternoon, going

Landon Flays Roosevelt Statements on U. S. Farmer

Landon Off on Stump Tour

President's Method of Increasing Agricultural Exports is "To Reduce Yardstick by Which They are Measured."

"SAME PROCESS"

Says Hull and Roosevelt Used Same Process in Reaching Conclusions on Exports.

Aboard Landon special en route to Cleveland, Oct. 12 (AP).—Gov. Alf M. Landon took issue today with statements of President Roosevelt in an address at Omaha Saturday and declared "the American farmer is suffering" as a result of administration tariff policies.

En route to Cleveland for the second major address of his lake states drive dealing with unemployment relief, the Republican presidential nominee declared at Mount Vernon, O., that "the Roosevelt method of increasing our agricultural exports is to reduce the yardstick by which they are measured."

Devaluation of the dollar, he contended, had the effect of increasing tariffs "69 per cent," and raising the book value of exports while quantities declined.

Landon quoted Secretary Hull's Minneapolis assertion that total agricultural exports had increased "steadily since 1932," and added that "President Roosevelt at Omaha Saturday" was not as specific as his secretary of state, but he indicated in plain language that the export markets for our agricultural products had been and are being reopened.

Search For Facts

"Now what are the facts?" Landon asked.

"First, as to the secretary's statement with reference to total exports, he says our total exports increased about 42 per cent. Now the department of commerce figures show that for the calendar year 1935 our exports increased only four per cent from 1933 to 1935. How are we to explain this discrepancy? Mr. Hull has expressed 1935 exports in terms of the old dollar. He has expressed 1935 exports in terms of a 59-cent dollar."

Used Same Process

"Both he and the President must have used the same process in reaching the conclusion that the exports of agricultural products have increased substantially and steadily since 1932."

"Here again official records show with reference to agricultural exports that, between 1932 and 1935 exports in terms of actual quantities exported declined as follows: Cotton 33 per cent; wheat 99 per cent, flour 42 per cent, meat products 19 per cent, and lard 82 per cent. The Roosevelt method of increasing our agricultural exports is to reduce the yardstick by which they are measured. It is just as if we cut the bushel measure in half and then contended we were exporting two bushels instead of one."

Opening his four-stop speaking trip to Cleveland for his major address tonight, Landon said that foreign food imports had increased 41 per cent in volume "to displace more than 20,000,000 acres of American farm lands."

Leaving Columbus after a two-day stay, the candidate was scheduled to arrive in Cleveland at 1:15 p. m. (EST) after speaking in Mount Vernon, Millersburg, Orrville and Akron in the industrial sector of northeast Ohio.

The Cleveland address will deal with relief and its relation to the jobs. It will be broadcast nationally and will begin at 9 p. m. He will be introduced by Daniel E. Morgan, former Cleveland city manager.

Landon planned to leave the train at Akron at 11:25 a. m. to drive to the armory for a speech.

Lowest August Deaths

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP).—The lowest August death rate in the history of the state—2.3 per 1,000 population—was reported today by the New York State Department of Health. At the same time the Health Department said that deaths from diseases of the heart, cancer and diabetes reached new highs. "In the record of mortality from the more important causes," he said, "the drop to new minima, for all months, of the death rates from nephritis, acute and chronic (24.7) and pneumonia, all forms (31.1)."

3-State Search For Bandits

Indianapolis, Oct. 12 (AP).—Donald F. Silver, superintendent of Indiana state police, said today Department of Justice agents had joined a three-state search for three desperate hooded bandits who escaped yesterday from the Hancock county jail at Greensfield, where they were awaiting trial for murder of an Indianapolis police sergeant. "This is a search to the finish," Silver said. "In addition to the federal agents, state police in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Kentucky are participating in the hunt."

Bandit Fined $10

James Vandemark, 55, of Hurley, was arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vandenburg on a charge of public intoxication and held for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Robert H. Lovelorn. The arrest was made near the Harford train station where Vandemark was on the highway disrupting traffic on Saturday night.

The court imposed a $10 fine.

Now Working on Payment Reports

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Three hundred field supervisors are at work throughout New York state on final reports for payment to 42,000 farms taking part in the Agricultural Conservation Program, says Roy A. Porter of Elba, chairman of the state committee.

Mr. Porter emphasizes that these payments must be actually earned by the farmer. He says the state committee insists that every farmer will be paid the full amount to which he is entitled, but that every effort will be made to uncover inaccuracies. It is suggested that a farmer who has completed all of his practices and is ready for inspection notify his county office.

Alberta's Social Credit Trial Will Meet Real Test November 1

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)

Edmonton, Alberta, Oct. 12.—Alberta's strong-jawed premier, William Aberhart, an amazing personality who almost overnight has sprung from near oblivion to become the most talked of individual in Canada because of his tradition-shattering social credit experiment, will begin to meet his real test about November 1, if present plans materialize.

Near that date, it is announced, the provincial government will start dealing out its history-making monthly "basic dividends," that is, credit which will be the equivalent of cash within the province.

This means a gratuitous income from the state for every adult citizen, rich or poor, employed or involuntary idle, who has consented to support the movement.

Profit Sharing Corporation

It means that the province, under a plan which never before has been tried by any government, would in effect be turned into a profit sharing corporation. In this every Albertan would ipso facto be a "stockholder," if he or she agrees to play the game that way.

The amount of the initial dividend has not yet been determined, but a sum between five and ten dollars per month has been mentioned. Twenty-five dollars was the sum tentatively suggested by Aberhart in the early days of his campaign.

Later he announced he saw no reason why the figure should not be $75. This was just before the election of August, last year, and it created a furor of approval that swept him into power with fifty-six of the sixty-three members of Parliament behind him.

It was the first political job of this man of 57 who previously had been a school teacher and Fundamentalist preacher of the Gospel.

It is written on the social credit wall that there will be cold, dire days ahead for non-participants. The first outstanding move of the Aberhart legislature was to make an arbitrary cut of about 50 per cent in the average interest rates on provincial bonds, with the exception of one small group.

The total funded and unfunded debt of the province is $160,000,000, some 55 per cent of which is held in the United States. The average rate of interest on bonds has been 4.89 per cent; it was slashed to 2 1/2 per cent.

Roar of Rage

A road of rage, coupled with threats, went up from bankers and bondholders throughout Canada. Breach of contract was charged. But Aberhart, who had been handed Mother Hubbard's cupboard in place of a state treasury by his predecessors, merely retorted that fighting law and gave his opponents a "so what" look.

Then the legislature passed a bill for reduction of all private debts.

The measure provided that on all private debts contracted prior to July 1, 1932, the interest should be wiped out up to July 1, 1936. All interest already paid between these dates was to be applied to retirement of principal. The balance of the debt could be paid off over a period of 10 years, without interest, on a graduated scale, beginning with small instalments.

Moreover, on all debts contracted since July 1, 1932, the maximum interest collectable is five per cent. Anything paid above that applies to retirement of principal.

All this has provided a tremendous boon to farmers and others, many of whom are mortgaged up to the hilt as the result of hard times. The legislature also decreed that municipalities shall not collect taxes to pay more than three per cent interest on their securities. On April 1, the government defaulted on a bond payment of $3,200,000, but paid the interest.

Has Inspired Others

Aberhart's strong-arm methods of handling debts have inspired others to follow him.

Already the neighboring province of Saskatchewan, which with Alberta and Manitoba constitutes one of the world's greatest granaries, has announced a reduction of $75,000,000 in the tax, relief and interest debts of farmers in 158 drought-stricken areas. It is the Aberhart scheme with modifications to suit local conditions.

The great province of Alberta, treasure-house of natural wealth, is seething. The masses who voted for Aberhart continue to worship at his feet, and drink in his Sunday radio sermons.

The premier's opponents assert that he is riding for a dictatorship. In support of this they point, among other things, to his recent heated statement that he would consider the question of "licensing" the press of Alberta.

The writer heard him make this threat, which contemplates bringing the newspapers under some measure of government control. The declaration was inspired by articles which Aberhart said were untrue and intended to cast discredit on the office of premier.

The dominion government has made no move against Aberhart, despite the fact that it has sole power over interest rates on provincial bonds. The correspondent was told in well informed quarters in both Alberta and Ottawa that the government has adopted an attitude of hands-off and watchful waiting, for the time being at least.

It is stated that this is due to advice from political leaders who said the masses in Alberta are in such a state of ferment that interference with Aberhart might produce a revolution. To reports that he is ambitious to become prime minister of all Canada, Aberhart has given the denial.

But the skipper of the social credit ship continues to poke the nose of his craft out into uncharted waters and holds doggedly to the course which he believes will lead to the harbor of Utopia.

Tomorrow: Aberhart. The Man.

Change Date Again

The cafeteria supper sponsored by the Men's Club of the Fair Street Reformed Church has announced two different dates for this annual affair and by request has again set a new date in order not to conflict with other church suppers. Friday evening, October 16, is the date set and appetizing hot and cold dishes will be available to all from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock. This will be the eighth annual supper conducted by this club and is anticipated with pleasure by its ever growing patrons.

A. L. Fiske Speaks Before Holy Name Society on Sunday

A. Longfellow Fiske, a former Unitarian minister who six years ago embraced the Catholic faith, delivered an address last evening before a meeting of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society. Mr. Fiske took as his theme "Shadows and Reality" and traced the spiritual and mental difficulties he encountered before he entered the Catholic church.

Quoting a widely read author, Mr. Fiske declared that "an institution is a shadow cast by a great man." When he thought of militarism, he said, the names of Caesar, Alexander and Napoleon came to mind; when he thought of Fascism he recalled Mussolini; when he thought of Nazism he remembered the name of a "well known" German; the word democracy recalled the names of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln; all business institutions are the projections of the ideals and ideas of some dynamic person.

This, he said, also holds true in the field of religion. When he thinks of Mohammedanism he thinks of Mohammed; when he thinks of Buddhism he thinks of Buddha. In all the modern sects and cults, the name of some particular person stands out. Christian Science brings up the name of Mary Baker Eddy; Presbyterianism has its John Calvin; Unitarianism has its James Martineau and William Channing.

The Catholic church, said Mr. Fiske, is not the shadow of anybody, but is the real Christ living here and now. It is not a shadow but a reality.

Rome via Politics
"There are many roads to Rome," Mr. Fiske said, "but I believe the road I took was rather unusual. It was really the political road that led me to the Catholic church. If Al Smith had not been nominated for the presidency I would not be here tonight."

Mr. Fiske explained why the nomination of Al Smith was linked with his entry into the church. He said he was pastor of a church in Kansas when he was invited to attend a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan. The minister of another church, he said, delivered a scathing attack on the Catholic church. Mr. Fiske declared that at the time he was not interested in the Catholic church, but that he believed in Americanism, justice and fairness.

Mr. Fiske said that at the meeting he realized that modern civilization owes much to Catholic culture, especially in the fields of literature, poetry and drama. The Ku Klux Klan attack on the church did not at all agree with Mr. Fiske's conception of Americanism and justice.

A short time later, while pastor of a Unitarian church at Omaha, Neb., Mr. Fiske said he addressed the Rotary Club and at that time expressed the hope that Al Smith would not be nominated for the presidency, not because he was not qualified for that high office but because of the deluge of bigotry that would flood the land. Smith was nominated and Mr. Fiske made several addresses in behalf of religious tolerance.

Spoke in Nebraska
Mr. Fiske's first such speech was delivered at York, Neb., some 60 miles from Omaha. He told his hearers that if Catholics were good enough to bear arms in the fight for independence, if they did their full part as Americans in 1812, in the Mexican War and in the Civil War, if they went over the top as many Catholics did in the World War, surely they were worthy of any office within the gift of the American people. Mr. Fiske also made some pointed remarks regarding the failure of prohibition. Altogether, he said, his talk was considered rather radical for a Unitarian minister.

Mr. Fiske returned home to find the Omaha papers full of his talk. He resigned his pastorate and went out stumping for religious tolerance. Mr. Fiske said he was impressed by the attitude of numerous Catholic women who heard his talks, but that it was at Lincoln, Neb., where he shared a place on the platform with Governor Nellie Ross of Wyoming, that he got a surprise that set him to serious thinking. At the close of his talk, he said, a woman came up to the platform and said:

The Woman's Words
"You have the Catholic philosophy of life and don't know it. I am going to pray that some day you will know it."

After the campaign, Mr. Fiske was invited to lecture on psychology at Grand Island, Neb., and there met the bishop of the diocese. Even at that time, Mr. Fiske said, he had no intention of embracing Catholicism. He told the bishop of the material and spiritual difficulties he was encountering. The bishop gave him a book, "The Rebuilding of a Lost Faith." Mr. Fiske read it the next day and far into the night.

Suddenly, Mr. Fiske declared, he realized that the church is not merely a body of believers, but rather the body of Christ, a supernatural institution. He later attended his first Mass at the cathedral and was impressed by the devotion of the people. The women, he said, were not looking at the hats worn by other women; there was no talking; all eyes were turned, not toward the priest, but toward the altar, where lay the body of Christ. He realized, the speaker said, the truth stated by Cardinal Manning, who declared that "when Martin Luther took the Blessed Sacrament out of the church, he removed the heart."

Mr. Fiske likened his conversion to the lifting of a fog, the emerging of a ship from the shadows of the mist to the reality of a safe port.

Mr. Fiske was introduced to the Holy Name society by the society's spiritual director, the Rev. John J. Manning.

DUMB ANIMALS ONCE HAD LEGAL RIGHTS

Trial for Crimes Common Centuries Ago.

Washington, D. C.—"Woof, woof," was all the prisoner could say for himself in a recent sensational trial. For the prisoner was a dog.

"The trial of animals for murder and mayhem was fairly common several centuries ago," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Primitive civilizations assumed that animals were man's equals in intelligence and moral responsibility, and held them equally liable before the law. Today it is more usual to file suits against owners instead of their animal property."

"European countries have a centuries-long record of hailing animals into court. Rumor has it that storks were brought to punishment in 666. In the Fifteenth century especially, prosecutions by the score were brought against rats, insects, and domestic animals."

"It was in France, Switzerland and Germany that beasts most frequently locked horns with the law, and occasionally in Italy and Belgium. History tells of trials also in Spain, Russia, Denmark, England, and Scotland. Even at that, it is doubtful whether history tells all."

Murder Usual Charge.
"Murder was the usual charge. Pigs figured prominently among the dumb criminals, no doubt because they mingled with their human neighbors in streets and peasant homes with little restriction."

"Domestic animals were booked for charges before civil courts like human offenders, but wild animals were committed to the judicial branch of the church. Ecclesiastical courts handled suits even against snails, snakes, caterpillars, horseflies, grasshoppers, dolphins, locusts, eels, and most frequently, rats. The accused, being dumb, would be assigned a glib human advocate, would have charges read loudly before their haunts or holes, and were usually punished with anathema and banishment."

"This procedure was followed in the new world with a Canadian suit against turtles doves."

"Murder was not the sole crime which brought beasts before the bar. Domestic animals in the house where crime had been committed were condemned as accessories and executed in accordance with an old South German law. Oxen could be killed in early Rome for serving a farmer in plowing up a boundary marker. Certain ants were convicted, two centuries ago in Brazil, of undermining the cellars of a monastery and stealing flour. In Basel, Switzerland, in 1474, an aged rooster was solemnly tried and burned at the stake for laying an egg."

"A dog found guilty of biting without first barking a warning was to be punished as for willful murder, according to an ancient Persian law."

Meet Various Fates.

"Beasts in the jungles of law meet various fates. Most, when condemned to pay the extreme penalty, have been hanged on special gallows, hanged by the hind legs to a bent tree, or ceremoniously knocked in the head. Some were buried alive, some burned alive, others singed alive and mercifully throttled before being burned. Their legal prosecution has been known to include torture on the rack, although no confessions were forthcoming."

"Whatever may be an animal's legal end, great care has been taken to guarantee due process of law in reaching it. Appeals and new trials were granted to condemned brutes."

"Either codified law or primitive tribal law has passed judgment on nearly everything on Noah's passenger list."

"The United States has given dumb brutes the right of trial. Puritan New England took legal toll of the animal kingdom to the extent of eight in New Haven and two in Salem, the latter being dogs hanged for witchcraft. Elephants have been formally sentenced to be shot for slaying their keepers. One was acquitted when circus employees testified to its sweet disposition. Once, however, when a circus elephant ran murderously amuck among spectators, the keeper and not the beast was tried for second degree manslaughter."

Back to the Farm
Harrisburg, Pa.—Pennsylvania's farm population during the past five years has been augmented by 180,000 persons. The Keystone state now has 975,000 persons living on farms, with a non-white farm population of 4,525.

Wheat From Field to Table in One Day
Owosso, Mich.—W. F. Alexander, Rush township farmer, believes he set a record when he ate wheat for supper that had been growing in the morning.

He harvested his wheat in the morning with a combine which cuts and threshes in a single operation; ground some of the wheat in the afternoon and his wife made wheat gems for supper.

Harvest time, when we reap the fruits of our labors, is here again. Since the remotest ages it has been the season of rejoicing. To the ancient Druids it meant festivals and dances; to the Romans it meant the "Cerealia" or feast in honor of Ceres, to later Italians the celebration is for Pomona.

DREAMS HAVE HIDDEN MEANINGS

Thousands of years ago people believed that dreams were spirit warnings and messages. Today many people and practically all scientists believe that every dream indicates something.

To dream of an alarm clock may mean cause for worry. Bees may mean work or a new position as they typify industry. To dream of a telegram may mean unpleasant news unless the actual message is on the telegram you dream of.

She Dreamed of Trains and Lost Her Job

She had been careless in her work at the office, had arrived late and left early and been rather disagreeable with her co-workers. One night she dreamed that she went to the subway and was told there were no trains. She tried to buy a ticket and was again told there were no trains. This dream had no meaning to her because she did not understand it was warning her that, unless she changed her actions at work, she would lose her position and so not need a train.

Dreaming of a savage dog may be a warning that you curb your temper or you may do yourself or another harm. A dream of flying may mean that you will soon find peace, happiness and contentment. A dream of loss of money may mean a fear of insecurity, or fear of losing a cherished possession.

Whether you do or do not believe there is a scientific explanation behind dreams, you will still be interested in the new 40-page booklet, INTERPRETING YOUR DREAMS. It contains many interesting descriptions of dreams and how they were analyzed to the advantage of the dreamer.

Send 15c for our booklet, INTERPRETING YOUR DREAMS, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Abbo was originally the French word for abbot.

THE RECORD SPEAKS.

Between now and November 3 there will be considerable oratory in Ulster county by the members of the local Democratic party, but the voters will not be misled by the flow of words for they have not forgotten the record established by the Democrats a few years ago, when for the first time in many years, they obtained control of the Board of Supervisors.

What happens when the Democrats gain control was graphically displayed at that time for instead of devoting their efforts to improve, if possible, upon the record of sound pay-as-you-go government established by the Republican party in Ulster county, they wasted their time trying to oust the county superintendent of highways.

The local Democratic machine is now urging that the voters give the Democratic candidates for local offices an opportunity to show what they can do in public office. If the Democratic organization had accomplished anything worth while while in control, the plea now being made might have some effect.

The only issue that the Democrats now raise is the cry that the Republicans in Ulster county have held public office long enough, and that the Democrats should be given a chance.

That Ulster county voters pay no attention to such pleas is noted in the office of district attorney. During the past fifty years every Ulster county district attorney who has sought re-election has been elected to serve at least three terms. Ulster county voters show their appreciation of men in public office who have made good by returning those men to office.

FRENCH DEMOCRACY

Premier Blum's final surrender to the need of revealing the French franc, with the friendly co-operation of the United States government, followed closely after his spectacular radio speech to the world on democracy. That noble utterance, at a time when political freedom is on the defensive in so many countries, deserves to be known and remembered far beyond the reach of its immediate audience. Here are a few passages which American parents might well read to their children and teachers to their pupils, as illustrations of the finest political principles of this confused age:

The history of the last century has demonstrated that democratic principles offer at least as much stability as governmental systems founded on the omnipotence of one man, even though that omnipotence be explained by genius. Democracy is precisely the regime that permits society to progress in an orderly way, since it makes progress depend on a more and more enlightened will.

It is not by democracy that Britain has been able to control that almost insensible adaptation of tradition and progress, which has permitted her to transform all her institutions while remaining faithful to herself? Is it not by democracy that the United States has been able to bring about a prodigious economic revival in a few years, without compromising legal order for a single minute, without going outside the framework of the Constitution elaborated just after the War of Independence by American disciples of Montesquieu and Rousseau?

No, democracy does not emerge condemned by the long trial waged against it. It is justified by proof as by reason. The debt that humanity has contracted toward it in 150 years is indefinite. France knows it, and France remains faithful to democracy.

ETHIOPIAN PUZZLE

Those Ethiopians continue to be a problem, not only to their conquerors in Ethiopia but to the League of Nations at Geneva. Just before the exiled Emperor Haile Selassie left for the current Assembly of the League, the Ethiopian Legation in London told the world a few things. Nearly two-thirds of Ethiopia, it said, remains unconquered. Four armies of native warriors are still in the field against the Italians. Thirty-six provinces have never been occupied by the Italians and still affirm loyalty to the Ethiopian government. "Peace reigns, public security is maintained, and taxes, in general, are being collected in the normal manner in the greater part of the territories into which the Italian forces have not penetrated," said the astonishing statement. "In those territories the civil and military governors and judges are still those who were appointed by the Emperor before hostilities began."

In that case, one might ask, why is the Emperor in exile, and not in headquarters somewhere in the loyal provinces? Outsiders have known that Italy's self-imposed task in Ethiopia was far from accomplished, but they have thought climate and guerrilla warriors were its only opponents. A well-organized and confident opposition, if it really exists, is never revealed in Italy's own reports of the situation.

WHY CATCH COLD

Doctors and research scientists are still hot on the trail of the common cold, its cause and its cure. They still do not know as much about these two phases as they expect to know some day, but they have learned much about something even more important—how to avoid "catching cold." The first rule for successful evasion of a cold is to keep fit. A long succession of careful tests has shown conclusively that people in good general health have fewer colds than others. One hundred subjects were studied in a recent test. During a seven-month period 64 per cent of those in "good condition" got through with one cold or none, while 80 per cent of those not rating "good condition" had four or more colds.

An individual who catches a cold and then looks back carefully over his life during the preceding week is very likely to find that he has been unusually tired, has had less than his required amount of sleep, or been careless about other health habits. It is giving first aid to the enemy to spend several hours in an over-heated room. The common cold is no trivial matter. It is considered the most costly as well as the most distressing of human ailments. The ounce of prevention is well worth taking, particularly as it is far more effective than the pound of cure.

KOREAN PRIDE

One Olympic victory caused political excitement in the Orient. That was the brilliant feat of Kitei Son of Korea in the Marathon race at Berlin. His triumph was credited to the Japanese team, of course, and pictures sent back to Seoul showed the Japanese emblem beside the victor. A Korean came in third in the same race, giving added glory to Japan.

When the pictures were published in Korea the rising sun of Japan was carefully painted out. Koreans who had long been holding resentment against Japan in silence suddenly felt moved to express it aloud. A Japanese cabinet meeting was called to discuss the problem. Several Korean newspapers were suppressed or decided "voluntarily" to cease publication for an indefinite period.

Nothing much will come of this little flurry of patriotism on the part of a few Koreans. Most Koreans, fishermen and farmers and dwellers in the small villages, don't know anything about the Olympic Games, the Marathon or even Kitei Son. They don't even know there has been a recent cause for arousing national pride or thinking of the possibility of defeating Japan. And Kitei Son himself probably is less resentful than others. He and his fellow-Koreans have both benefited by the Japanese athletic and educational system set up in Korea.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Through an amazing act of circumstance, Francis Mahony finds himself in command of a group of crooks, including Lawson, a notorious and respectable gentleman, and a third man, a crook of the first order, who is a crook of the first order. There is no proof that will stand in court. Worse, the police are searching for Terence and most of his newly acquired gang.

Chapter 25 BIG BOOK

"That's all right with me," said Bassett, "and I'll answer for my mates. But what d'yer want us to do? What are your plans? It ain't going to be no sort of garden party, is it? It's going to be a big book."

"It won't be as bad as all that," answered Mahony. "For one thing, provided you can keep our friend Lake hidden away safely, Lawson isn't going to know you're up against him just yet. You'd better see to Lake right away, before he can get away. You'd better see to Lake right away, before he can get away. You'd better see to Lake right away, before he can get away."

Barney shot out a huge hand, grabbed Lake by the shoulder, jerked him to him, and held him firmly. Lake opened his mouth to yell, but Barney's left hand came firmly down on his face, effectively shutting out any sound.

"Will I give him a crack on the head, just to make sure he'll keep quiet?" asked Barney.

Barney's hand came firmly down over his face.

"Not for a moment," answered Mahony. "Turn out his pockets to begin with. Then I want to ask him a question. If he won't answer you can hit him as hard as you like."

Lake's pockets were turned out and the contents emptied on the table. When that had been done, Mahony stood in front of Lake looking him squarely in the eyes.

"What's in that big book that Barney was told to steal from Lawson's house?" he demanded.

Lake's knees were trembling; his teeth were chattering with fright. He knew that if he divulged that information, and Lawson found out, his life was not worth a moment's purchase. On the other hand, if he did not divulge the information...

"If he doesn't answer, just push his face in, Barney," said Mahony. "Lake was almost weeping. He was in a state of mind in which a man will fall on his knees and beg abjectly for mercy."

"It contains documents," whimpered Lake. "Papers about people he has dealings with and—members of his own gang."

"People he has dealings with—you mean people he's blackmailing and selling drugs to," said Mahony. "I understand that. But what are the documents about members of his own gang?"

"He's got written evidence of some criminal act against everybody who works for him—that is, every body who works for him knowing who he is," went on Lake. "He keeps it all packed in a book."

"Is other words, he likes to be in a position to squeal whenever he feels inclined," remarked Mahony. "But now he knew exactly why Ross had been so anxious to get hold of that book. If he wanted to break away from Lawson, it was absolutely essential that he should get possession of the evidence which Lawson held against him."

"To him up and take him away," he ordered.

Lake was tied up and gagged and removed from the room. While this unnecessary fuss about early tumblers may miss a trick later on. The child is so used to screaming over trifles, that an important injury may be overlooked.

Tommy has been permitted, even encouraged, to yell every time he stubs his toe. When he falls out of the apple tree no one can tell whether he is badly hurt or not. He raises the usual commotion, but when the noise subsides and it is found that he is quite well and more his usual, he is usually as usual.

Months or even years later, when the boy develops physical or nervous symptoms for which no cause can be found, the accident has been forgotten. It is a good idea to pay no attention to a baby's casual tumbles. Let him pick himself up and go on without comment. When he has a serious accident give him more care and less sympathy. A day or two in bed, a thorough physical examination by a doctor and constant observation for a few weeks, are worth more than kisses and words of comfort.

West Shokan, Oct. 12.—The Ladies' Aid Society held its first fall meeting at the church basement Monday afternoon. Work and social plans were given consideration. The board of trustees of the church also were present. It was mutually agreed that a work bee be held Saturday, October 17, to which anyone capable of handling a saw or hammer is invited. At this time the church shed will be in part torn down and one end enclosed for a wood house. The gallant ladies in doing their turn will serve dinner for the group of workers. It was decided not to hold a Halloween supper, however, the customary election day dinner and supper will be served at the polling place in Colange's hall. Due to the busy time of autumn no quilting work will be started till after election.

VARIKOSE ULCERS

Some years ago it was discovered that injecting the veins supplying the tissues in the region of a varicose ulcer of the leg would heal up the ulcer. This was a great improvement on the old methods of strapping up, wearing an elastic stocking, and applying various ointments.

However, it was found that there were some varicose ulcers that could not be healed by these methods, much to the discouragement of patients and physicians. It would appear that a new form of treatment for this unsightly and disabling condition has been found and Dr. Leslie Saylor, Topeka, Kansas, and Dr. Joseph Kovacs, A. Wilbur Dwyer, and Irving Wright, New York, report the results of this new treatment in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The formation of varicose ulcers is now generally accepted as being the result of venous stasis (stoppage) due to the dilation of the veins and weakening of the valves in the veins which allows the blood to flow downward instead of upward toward the heart. This produces back pressure and the waterlogging of the tissues. With not enough oxygen in the blood, poor circulation, and the accumulation of poisonous wastes, the resistance of the tissues is lowered and any little infection, any slight blow may cause an ulcer which refuses to heal.

Believing that a drug or drugs that would widen or dilate the blood vessels and stimulate the circulation would enable these ulcers to heal, these physicians used acetyl-beta-methylcholine chloride—a standard 0.5 solution: Reinforced absorbent paper is saturated with the 0.5 solution of the drug and wrapped around the foot and leg as high as the knee. The ulcerated part is not covered during treatment until a firm scab has formed over it. After the scab has formed the application may be made directly over the ulcerated part.

A malleable metal plate is placed over the wet absorbent paper and connected to the positive pole of a galvanic machine. The metal plates are never applied over the ulcerated part or area. A large, regular, moist pad electrode is used as a dispersive electrode, placed under the back and connected with the negative pole. The current is turned on and slowly increased to 20-30 milliamperes. At the end of the treatment it is slowly reduced and turned off. Treatment is given two or three times weekly for from 20 to 30 minutes.

There are local and general reactions from this treatment. Of the 26 patients, all of whom had received other treatment, ranging from 1 to 37 years, 23 obtained satisfactory results.

In calling the conference 10 months ago, President Roosevelt suggested that peace should be promoted through full ratification of present American peace treaties, by amending them, or by creation of new "peace instruments." Out of the latter grew talk of an American league to reinforce the Geneva League.

There is some sentiment for it in the United States. At the state department you learn that the feeling is shared in some South American states—but not enough.

One outlier is for a sort of permanent secretariat to start peace machinery operating faster than under the present system of arbitration treaties which provide merely for appointment of commissions to settle trouble presents itself. Of the several present treaties, not one has been ratified by all the states. So there is no general American peace code to which all can have access. One may evolve.

Cars Collide On Rosendale Bridge

Three cars were damaged and the drivers of two of them were arrested on charges of reckless driving preferred by the other, as the result of a mid-air collision on the bridge over the Rondout at Rosendale about 7 o'clock Sunday night.

The accident happened when Robert Jansen, driving from his home at New Paltz, attempted to pass the Chevrolet coupe driven by Mrs. Tracy Van Kleeck of New Paltz, both cars being on the bridge at the time. The Jansen car came in collision with a Nash sedan driven by John Rosecrans of Newburgh, which was coming from the opposite direction. After the two cars had side-swiped the Jansen car was thrown against the Van Kleeck car.

Rosecrans charged Jansen with reckless driving and the latter made a similar charge against Rosecrans. Troopers Reilly and Elliott, who made an investigation, arraigned the two before Justice Charles Craig of Tilson, who held them in bail of $10 each for a hearing at 2 p. m. on October 14.

All three cars were damaged, but not so badly but that they could continue on their way.

750,000 Persons Enjoy Trailer Life

Chicago, Oct. 12 (UP)—A widespread urge to travel tripled the number of coach trailers on United States highways this year and put more than three quarters of a million people into rolling homes, reliable estimates of the mushroom growth of an infant industry indicated today.

Next year this flowering business is expected to triple again the number of trailers and occupants living and vacationing in them—the so-called "tin can tourists"—it was disclosed in a survey by Karl Hale Dixon, publisher of a journal devoted to the field.

The number of houses on wheels in the United States grew from 100,000 in 1925 to more than 300,000 this year, and the number of "trailerites" from 250,000 to more than 750,000, Dixon estimated.

LAND OF COTTON ENJOYS GOOD TIMES WITH CROP

New Orleans, Oct. 12 (UP)—Good times in the land of cotton appeared today to have become an actuality.

A big cotton crop has been more than half picked, the first million bales have been exported, and the staple has gone on a market ranging from 11.50 to 12.25 cents a pound.

Currently estimated by the government at 11,663,000 bales, this year's cotton production is the largest since 1913-14. But in that season prices were down between 9 and 10 cents a pound, rather than 12 cents, during the months when the cotton was marketed.

If this crop is marketed at an average of 12 cents a pound it will bring nearly $700,000,000.

From all sides in recent weeks have come optimistic reports on cotton consumption, sales of cotton goods, and world demand for American cotton, offering a sharp contrast to the pessimism that prevailed a few months ago.

Scientist Finds Fat in Pine Trees

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Savannah, Ga., Oct. 12 (UP)—Shakespeare found sermons in stones. Now Dr. Charles H. Herty has discovered fat in sticks, of high commercial value.

The fat discovery was announced today from the pulp and paper laboratory of Savannah, where for more than two years Dr. Herty, white-haired scientific "magician" of chemistry, has been seeking a way to make book and bond paper and clothing from the south's huge pine forests.

His discovery of the fat in the woody part of trees and a cheap, easy way to extract it solved the paper problem. The south, he said, today, can make its trees immediately available for unlimited manufacture of the finest bond and book papers.

Preliminary experiments indicate, too, that removal of the fat may solve the clothing problem. The south has enough pine to clothe the whole world in rayon, if it can be made from trees there the same as it is now made from northern spruce.

The tree fat also offers a new industry to the present newspaper manufacturing business, Dr. Herty said. For he found the same fat in spruce trees, from which the world's present supply of newspaper and most of its white paper is made.

State Factory Roll at 410,513

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12 (UP)—There were 410,513 workers in 1,796 factories in New York state in September and payrolls averaged $10,303,344 weekly, the highest levels in more than five years, Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews reported today.

The September employment index was 82.7, a gain of 3.7 over August and 7.6 over September, 1935. The payroll index reached 71.7, up 0.9 from August and 8.8 higher than a year ago. Both were computed against 100 as the average for 1925-27.

The increase in working forces last month, Andrews said, was greater than the normal gain for the period based on records for 22 years. The payroll index was below the September average gain but followed a larger than usual August increase.

Gains were reported in all the six upstate districts except Rochester where payrolls declined 1.2 per cent and employment rose 3.1 per cent. The drop in wages in that district, Andrews said, was largely because "men's clothing factories in Rochester paid out less in wages."

New York city factories reported employment up 4 per cent and practically no change in payrolls.

Business trends show that business men are ignoring or discounting the election, and going ahead.

Feeter Returns With Bear Story

Under Sheriff J. W. Feeter, who has quite a reputation as a fisherman and Woodsman, has just returned from his vacation which was spent in the Adirondack mountain country.

Mr. and Mrs. Feeter visited among other places of interest the newly opened highway up Whiteface Mountain and also spent some time about the lake country and at Big Moose Lake. Mr. Feeter has not yet disclosed the extent of his fishing experiences during the trip but had a very remarkable story which might be of interest to local bear hunters.

The story is not about the bear that came over the mountain but about a bear that came into the kitchen.

While in the wilds of the Adirondack country Mr. Feeter became acquainted with the friendliness of the Adirondack black bear. During his stay there a huge black bear paid a visit to a farmhouse one evening, broke open the summer kitchen window and entered the kitchen, cleaned up every remnant of food in the kitchen and departed. At the time there was only one woman member of the family at home and she was too disturbed by the racket which the bear made among the pots and pans to seek aid.

Knowing that Mr. Bruin would return again to the scene of his former exploits the owner of the place determined not to do a Frank Buck stunt and capture the bear but to secure other evidence of the friendly spirit of Adirondack bears so he arranged to have a camera set up in the kitchen with a remote control trigger whereby the camera might be operated from an adjoining room.

The idea was good, according to Mr. Feeter, but the operations were conducted too leisurely. While the photographing equipment was being arranged and electrical wiring was being placed to provide the necessary flood lights for a night exposure the workers were surprised about 6 o'clock in the evening by a very prolific grunt. The resounding grunt, whether of disgust or pleasure, came from Mr. Bruin, who stood at the door looking in on the workers. It is needless to say that the picture was not taken and those who were on the scene immediately left for parts unknown.

Since the bear season is not yet open and the householder desires to keep the fat 400 pound bear until the open season a mild form of persuasion was used to frighten away Mr. Bear pending the opening of the bear season. The gentle persuasion was in the form of a charge of fine shot from a shot-gun.

The story is absolutely true the under sheriff says as he saw the huge paw tracks on the floor of the kitchen next day when he paid a visit to the premises and he also saw the bear paw tracks about the pantry shelves where Mr. Bruin had been in search of food. The height of the tracks he said substantiated the story as to the huge size of the bear.

OFFICE CAT

A young fellow would get less kick out of the delight she shows when he gives her the diamond ring if he could vision the lectures she's going to give him later for the one he leaves in the bathtub.

Patient—I believe I am a little better, doctor, but I am still short of breath.
Doctor—I can stop that completely after a few more treatments.

Doctor—Where shall I vaccinate you?
Modern Girl—Oh, anywhere; it's bound to show.

We heard a man say the only thing that will keep his kids quiet is a drum.

Mildred (lily)—And shall I return the engagement ring?
Frank—Oh, no, don't bother. I'll just have the notice of the next installment sent to you.

Love has to be mighty true to tolerate a red nose.

Nobody knew how very wild the wild waves are until the radio brought its static along with it.

Girlfriend—You beast! I thought you told me there wasn't a single mosquito at this resort.

Boyfriend—That's right. They're all married and have large families.

Bride—You must not expect me to give up my girlhood days all at once now that we're married.
Groom—That's all right, dear. Go on taking an allowance from your father just as if nothing had happened.

We often wonder what the devil thinks when he hears some of the political lies. He sure thinks he has some good candidates booked for his place.

Magistrate—So you claim you robbed that grocery because you were starving. Why didn't you take something to eat instead of looting the cash register?

Prisoner—I'm a proud man, yer honor, an' I makes it a rule to pay for my food.

All the cafeteria seems to lack is some good lively music for the customers to keep step to.

Friend—Your son is making good progress with his violin. He is beginning to play quite well.

Host—Do you really think so? We were so afraid that we merely had got used to it.

There are two kinds of men who never amount to anything: one who cannot do as he is told, and the other who can do nothing else.

Man—My wife was an argument with me this morning by a hair.

Friend—What was the argument, handsome?

Man—That I'd had a blonde's head resting on my shoulder.

When you spend money out of town it says "Farewell Forever." When you spend money at home it says "Till We Meet Again." Ever hear money talk that way?

Willie—Pa, does bigamy mean that a man has one wife too many?
Pa—Not necessarily, my son. A man can have one wife too many and not be a bigamist.

You can tell when you have started downhill. The world seems to be going to the dogs.

Mrs. James—You look absent-minded when I spoke to you this morning.

Mrs. Pave—I was probably wrapped up in thought.

Mrs. James—It's a wonder you didn't take cold.

Approval of the family of sister's beau is a sure way to get rid of him. Sister has such a poor opinion of the family's judgment, she is sure they must be wrong.

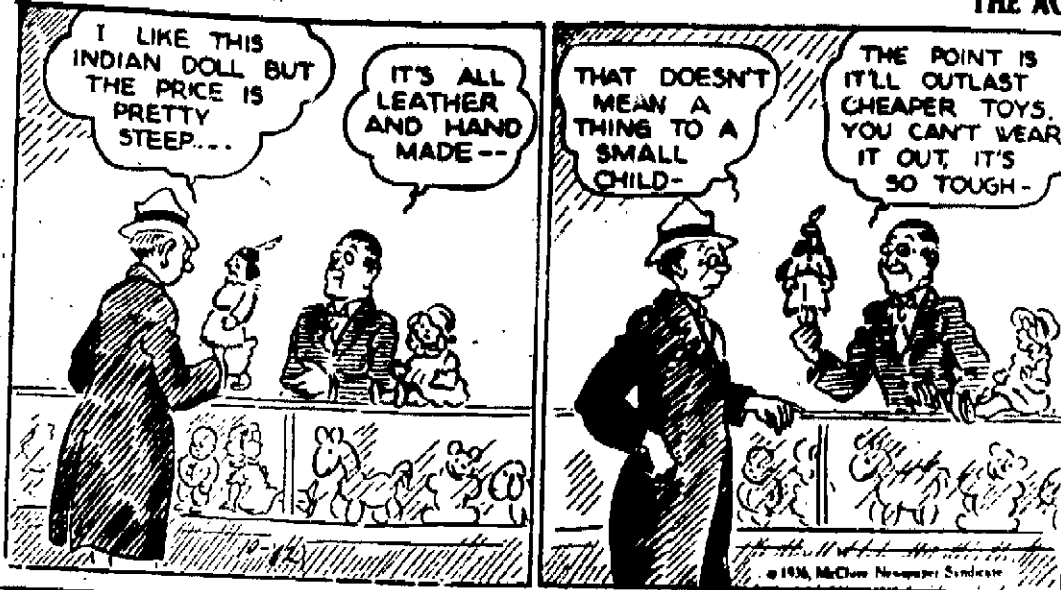

The beaver in the living exhibit in the Trillium Museum at Bear Mountain Park, are becoming such objects of interest to visitors, including those from nearby Hudson river communities that they have been invited out, and are going into society. They were recently invited to the Cornwall Garden Show, where they went through their first appearance with their customary nonchalance.

The whale bellows forth in a voice deep and clear—
"Trembling!" he shouts—you've no business out here.
"You're no sailors and back on the shore you should be

SHIP GOES AGROUND AT GOLDEN GATE

The freighter Ohlson, with 42 aboard, was held fast on the rocks near San Francisco's Golden Gate when it struck in the fog while groping for the entrance to San Francisco harbor. The 407-foot craft was in no immediate danger and Coast Guardsmen stood by to give aid and take off members of the crew. (Associated Press Photo)

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 10.—The Ladies Aid Society of the Shokan Reformed Church held its October meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clyde Winchell. Mrs. Daniel B. Sampson, president of the Aid, presided at the business session. It was decided to hold in the church basement on Tuesday evening, November 17, a Dutch supper such as formerly took place here annually but was discontinued several years ago. These suppers, it was pointed out, were attended by many persons from Kingston and other communities and it is hoped that the event next month will again bring these people to Shokan for a social evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Richard of Flushing, L. I., paid a brief visit to their summer home on the state road last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barringer have moved into their recently purchased home on the north boulevard.

Elmer Bedell and the Rev. August Paus represented the local Reformed Church at Classis on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wendt are remaining at their state road place until after election, before returning to Sunnyside, L. I., for the winter months.

Alva K. Winchell, a pupil of the Shokan school, has been confined to her home by illness for the past several days.

Mrs. Reynolds W. Bishop, a former resident of the village center, has removed from Lake Hill to the Lasher building in Ashokan which she at one time conducted as a tea room.

Week-end guests at Mrs. Auer Longyear's were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Didier, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hein and Dr. C. F. Mack, all of whom reside in Flushing, L. I.

The water supply situation remains acute throughout the twin villages. One householder reports that his well is lower than at any previous time during the 20 odd years that he has occupied the place.

The prospects for a good hunting season appear none too bright at this time. The gray squirrels have departed for parts unknown while the deer also have made themselves scarce.

Herbert A. Dibbell makes the daily trip to and from Lackawack where he is employed in the engineering department of the Board of Water Supply.

October 10, 1900, the marriage took place of William B. Whitaker to Phoebe Jane Krom, both of the north Marlborough section of Ulster county. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. O. P. Bates, pastor of the Shokan M. E. Church.

On the same day another Marlborough young man, Charles M. Vandemark, of Ashokan, was married to Etta A. Brink, of Kingston, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. F. C. Sommer of West Hurley.

Elmer Bedell spent several days last week with Mrs. Bedell at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Albert Carman of Rosendale.

Mrs. Leonard F. Rockert has been spending a few days with friends at Catskill.

Mrs. Hober Markle and son, Homer, left Shokan Monday for Lanesville, N. J., where they expected to visit Mrs. Edwin Swenson, formerly Mrs. Ruth Markle.

Mrs. Dennis J. Lynch of New York is remaining at the Lynch summer home on the upper mountain road for an indefinite time.

Farewell to Cables
Los Angeles—While 3,000 persons watched, a petite spider monkey walked a block along a high-tension cable 40 feet above the street. Then she stepped on an uninsulated part. There was a flash and apparently electrocuted, her flaming body plummeted to the pavement.

But she was not killed, only burned on her legs and tail. Peter Fillo, a pet shop owner, said the monkey, a newcomer from Brazil, escaped from her pen.

Hi-Y Club Behind Stadium Movement

The Alpha Chapter of the Boys' Hi-Y Club, in a letter to the sports department of The Freeman, stated it wished to commend the Junior Chamber of Commerce for bringing forward the need for a municipal athletic stadium in Kingston.

"Kingston has long needed such an athletic stadium," stated the letter written by Frank J. O'Hara, 107 South Manor avenue, secretary of the Hi-Y. "For a city of this size we have very poor athletic facilities."

"We are interested in this movement, and as a high school organization will be glad to cooperate with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in every possible way."

Must Make Personal Application for Absentee Ballots

Replying to numerous inquiries regarding absentee ballots, John B. Sterley, clerk of the Ulster County Board of Elections, stated this morning that application for absentee ballots may be made on any of the registration days. In the city the remaining days are October 16 and 17. In the country districts registration day will be October 17. In any case persons desiring to make application for absentee ballots must appear in person before the registration board of the district in which they are registered.

Applications for absentee ballots will be considered by the Board of Elections and if granted, ballots will be mailed to absentee voters some time during the week beginning October 12.

The ballots must be filled in and returned to the Board of Elections so that they will be in the hands of the board not later than noon on Friday, October 30.

Mr. Sterley stated this morning that so far about 175 applications for absentee ballots have been received at the Board of Elections office.

Say! who reads the ads anyway?

There they are, next to the play-by-play dope on the ball game, cutting off the news of So-and-So's engagement party so you have to jump clear to the middle of the next column to finish it. Those ads! You know who runs them, their signatures are on 'em—but who reads 'em anyway? The printer? That's right—but shucks, he's paid to! And the advertiser—sure, he reads them to see if the paper got the prices right. Who else? What's the great American ad-reader look like? Who reads the ads? Let's solve the mystery . . . and see!

This fellow's income is 'way above the average; there are not many like him, we'll admit. Retired from real estate last year; survived the depression nicely, thank you, and will be back from Bar Harbor in September. Gets a kick out of picking up $7 shirts for $3.79 by waiting for the sales. Reads the ads—not every day—but wouldn't think of buying without checking the price and quality against every value in the paper.

Remember her debut party? She'll be back at Smith's in the fall; right now she's pretty busy. What with the little car a Freeman ad helped sell her Dad, the places all the crowd goes to (they say the boys pick them from the Freeman), and the show her club gives every summer. To date she's tracked down material for costumes, arranged for tickets, and has practically closed a deal with a florist . . . all through the Freeman!

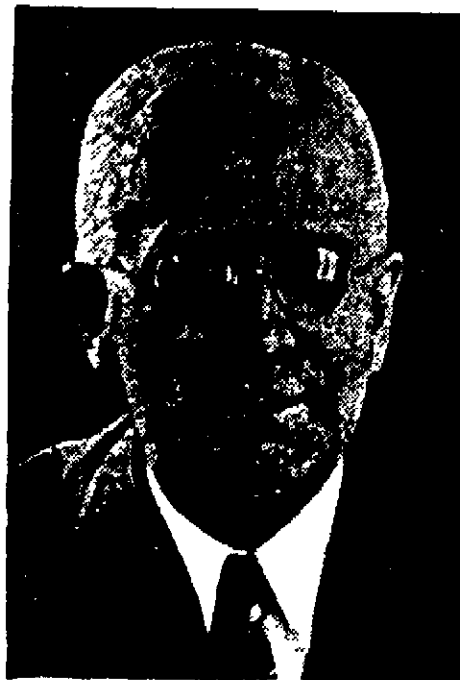

She likes to say that the children are grown up and out of the way now . . . but just watch her smile when she sees an ad for print wash frocks . . . size 2 to 6! Keeps a gift list that touches almost every day of the calendar, and half the dates are for children! Entertains a lot, too, and manages to belong to quite a few of the clubs. Proud of her home, and not a bit unwilling to take advantage of a bargain for it when the Freeman backs it up!

Here is a pretty complete little world, of course. Two children, a busy young husband, a new house . . . a little dominion that's pretty hard to crash. But she's made the Freeman a welcome intruder. Where else, she asks, would she find the same help in keeping a not-too-big budget straight . . . how else could she keep the house looking so newly furnished on so little . . . what other source would be so obliging about tipping her off on dozens of sales every day.

Still prefers the comics, but graduated into the ad reading class last year, when he decided he wanted a prep suit like the one his buddy, Charlie, got. Has since found quite a few things he's going to own some day. Sold on one make of bicycle right now, and a certain page of the Freeman has a way of popping up in a prominent place each night about the time that Dad's due home.

Belongs to a number of the city's service clubs, has kept a good business going for a number of years, and has a son who's going into the business some day soon. Makes a hobby of his place up at the lake, and won't let a gun or tackle ad out of his sight till he's read it all the way through. Finds the Freeman ads a good indication of business conditions in the city . . . as well as an effective medium for his own business.

Still in school, but looking forward to the day when he can buy his first car. Just at present quite satisfied with the buys he finds in sporting goods in the Freeman. Interested in what the well-dressed young man should wear, and willing to do a little research in the subject. (It's whispered that she lives just a block or two away.) Working the family pretty hard for the trip west that he read about in an ad in the Freeman.

Had a tough time a couple of years ago. But he found a job through the "Skilled Workmen" section in the classifieds, and he and the wife have been reading the ads for one reason or another ever since. First it was the new furniture they needed when they stopped "doubling up" with her folks, then they needed a used car, and right now, since things look better at the plant and there's another nest egg laid away, they're looking for another house.

Pretty shrewd, this youngster! Kind of hated to leave the city and go back to the farm, but he's managed to combine the advantages of both places in just a few short years. First saw the radio he now owns in a Freeman ad. Installed a bathroom after a Freeman ad told him how inexpensive the fixtures would be. Found that he'd save time by trading in the old truck on a light pick-up that a Kingston dealer advertised. And he saved money on the repair that he picked out of the want ads!

Not too many free hours in her life! But the Freeman makes every one of them do double duty, when she starts off on a shopping tour. Clothes have to be smarter, to make up for hours spent in a uniform; cosmetics have to be better, to pass her rigid inspection; everything she buys must get by a scrutiny like insistence on perfection. She learned back in her student days that she could rely on Freeman ads, and she's learned since that she can depend on them to save her off-duty time!

It's a date! And that, as any bright young member of Kingston High will tell you, means a trip through the Freeman ads. It may be for some new home . . . for a place to have the white coat cleaned . . . for something really different to wear if it's a dance. But whatever the occasion, it's reason enough for a trip through the ad pages, especially when it's almost as much fun as a shopping expedition, and saves the strain on next week's allowance.

"You wouldn't catch me reading the ads . . . just a waste of my valuable time." Oh, oh! Put it in a bad spot. Your photo must have gotten in here by mistake. Sorry . . . hey, wait a minute! . . . that the you're to see . . . didn't we see that pattern advertised about a week ago? Uh-huh . . . well, we thought so!

The answer, of course, can be briefly told; everybody reads the ads each day in

First Arrest Made Here for Violation Of Reflector Law

Harry Fertil of Hasbrouck Avenue Drove Car Without Required Reflector on Rear—Said New Law Skipped His Mind—Other Cases in Police Court.

On October 1, a new state law went into effect which required all cars to have a reflector or cat's eye attached to the rear of the car. The first arrest made in Kingston for a violation of the new law was made Saturday night when Harry Fertil, 22, of 71 Hasbrouck avenue, was arrested charged with operating a car without a reflector.

This morning in police court Fertil pleaded guilty. He told Judge Culliton he was aware of the new law, but it had slipped his mind. Since his arrest he had purchased a reflector and it was now placed on the rear of his car. Judge Culliton suspended the serving of any sentence.

Elmer Palen, 17, of Miller's Lane, was arrested for driving a car which was not equipped with an adequate horn or similar signaling device and also for operating the car without a driver's license. This morning Palen pleaded guilty, and was fined $5.

George B. Verigan of Accord, arrested for disorderly conduct in loitering on Albany avenue, was given a suspended sentence.

Edward H. Baudies of Alcatraz avenue, arrested on a charge of public intoxication, pleaded guilty and disposition of his case was deferred until later. He had a badly cut lip when arrested and the wound was sewed at the Kingston Hospital.

Ervin Schaefer of Purling, arrested for driving a car with four riding in the front seat, was fined $2.

Home of Mythical Giants

Not content with having its own private giant like every other city of northern France, the city of Douai, in Flanders, has a whole family of "giants" which contribute to the gaiety of the French carnival season. Anglo-Saxons know Douai chiefly as the city where the Catholic translation of the Bible was made. But to Frenchmen, it is celebrated as the homeland of mythical giants, some of them as big as the ones in Jonathan Swift's "Gulliver's Travels." The head of the Broddingnagian family which holds its reunion at Douai is an artificial colossus called Gayant, 28 feet high, who reigns as monarch of Flanders for 24 hours. He is accompanied by his wife who is 24 feet high and his children who range from 12 to 18 feet.

Wrote "Marseillaise"

Rouget de Lisle, who was an army officer, wrote the poem which he named "War Song of the Army of the Rhine." It was called the "Marseillaise" because it was first sung by volunteers from Marseilles. The song was suppressed under the First Empire and the Bourbons, but the revolution of 1830 called it up anew, and after being suppressed under the Second Empire, it became again the recognized national anthem of the French.

City of Magnificent Distances

The appellation "City of Magnificent Distances" as applied to Washington, D. C., is said to have come from John Randolph. In the early days when the department buildings, capitol and White House, widely separated, constituted even more than later the chief points of attraction and business. Randolph remarked that it was "a city of splendid poverty and magnificent distances."

Were certainly mathematical-minded.

All summer it's more bridges and all fall it's political polls, and all winter it's bridge scores and all through the year it's business statistics.

Snow Falls Today In Western Sector

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12 (UP)—Roofs throughout much of western New York were white with snow this morning, the coldest October 12 since 1876.

The temperature fell 24 degrees to 31 in less than six hours during the night, and a 56-mile wind helped make the day uncomfortable. Considerable damage was done to trees by the wind and in Buffalo some windows were blown in.

The Weather Bureau reported the snow was "unusually early" for this part of the state, that snow seldom fell here during the first half of October.

The record early fall was six inches on October 13, 1909, and on October 18 and 19, 1930, there was a storm that blocked highways, smashed roofs and tied up transportation. Snow was three feet deep south of here.

Sell-Out Indicated for Boxing Show Run by Mayor's Committee Friday

Orders are flowing in so rapidly for reserved seats, that indications are the boxing show for the Mayor's Industrial Committee will be a sell-out Friday night at the municipal auditorium.

The committee in charge of the show all gave reports of a big sale when they were seen by Sam Riber, one of the men chosen to help arrange the card of scraps for the 16th. Merchants selling reserved seats are E. Frank Flanagan, Wall street dealer; Matthew Herzog, hardware dealer; S. Gold of Gold's Reliable Shop, and Harry B. Walker, druggist, of central Broadway.

Friends of these men, desirous of attending the fights and anxious to contribute their share towards advancing the city industrially, are advised to order their seats early.

The card arranged for Friday contains the names of Flanagan's big men in the amateur ranks. Topping the list is Joe Wall, 116-pounder who represented the United States in London when the American boxing team fought in Europe.

Wall, who popped into prominence as a Golden Gloves champion, is matched with Matt Perfiti, 118 pound Italian streak of lightning from Amsterdam, champ of the bantamweights in the Adirondack Division of the A. A. U. The bout is slated for five rounds—or less.

When he approved this match, Ben M. Becker of the Adirondack amateur division said, "This bout should be one of the best ever seen in Kingston, and should have that bunch of fight fans cheering all the way through." Becker, anxious to see the "cauliflower" business flourish here, took special pains to see that all of the pairings were "just right."

"You haven't got a boy in Kingston except Myron Gillespie eligible to fight on the card," he told Riber. "Gillespie earned the right to scrap by taking part in the Golden Gloves tourney in Albany last winter. He is a nice little fighter, from what I saw of his ringmanship, and I think he can go quite a ways in the amateur ranks."

Gillespie weighs only 109 pounds. He is matched with Joe Martin, 110, of New York, in a three round encounter.

Two other thrills will show Johnny Hampton of Albany against Emil Palmer, 130, of Schenectady, and Roy Collier of Albany against Johnny Davis, 130, of Schenectady.

The other star five rounders besides the Wall-Perfiti bout are: Charles Forezzi, 120, Albany, three times champion of the Adirondack division in his class, vs. Eddie Heller, 118, New York.

Johnny Biliski, 176, Scotia, vs. Charles Jackson, 175, New York.

Frank Baumgartner, 165, Balston, vs. Eddie Jones, 160, New York.

Davis Sets Pace as Touchdown Maker

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Unless Kentucky's gridiron rivals get together and do something about stopping Bob Davis, the halfback flash threatens to run away not only with the Southeastern Conference scoring title, but with national honors as well.

In four games so far, Davis has made a race track of the football field, scoring nine touchdowns for a total of 54 points, setting the pace all over the country, as well as in his own back yard.

He's done it the hard way, too, breaking loose for five scoring runs of 45 yards or better, including one for 82 yards.

Nearest to him, but 20 points back, is the Big-Ten leader, Halfback Cecil Isbell of Purdue's "touchdown crazy" boiler-makers, who has five touchdowns and four extra points to his credit for a 34 total.

Two other thrills will show Johnny Hampton of Albany against Emil Palmer, 130, of Schenectady, and Roy Collier of Albany against Johnny Davis, 130, of Schenectady.

The other star five rounders besides the Wall-Perfiti bout are: Charles Forezzi, 120, Albany, three times champion of the Adirondack division in his class, vs. Eddie Heller, 118, New York.

The Huron Indians of Stone Ridge whitewashed the Kristic A. C. Rosedale's diamond representatives, 3-0, Sunday at Kristic Farm in Rosedale, C. Neff, winning pitcher, mowing for the Red Men with 15 strikeouts to his credit and some nice batting. He allowed only three hits.

Held in the goose-egg column, the Kristics were able to hit only one ball out to the outfield, Dave Rask hitting one to the right garden, but North pick it off, checking the chances of turning the clout into a score.

The Indians scored in third, sixth and seventh innings for their total of three runs.

In the third, North struck out. Roscoe fouled out, Lamb hit a single, C. Neff singled, sending Lamb to third and then F. Neff sent a zoomer to left field, scoring Lamb.

The sixth saw C. Neff single. F. Neff struck out. Kelly singled to drive home C. Neff with another Huron run.

North drove a fly to right field in the seventh, but it was caught for an out. Roscoe singled. Lamb hit one to the pitcher, going out. Then C. Neff singled Roscoe home with the last run of the contest.

Of all the secondary planets the earth's satellite is by far the most interesting and important. The moon completes her circuit around the earth in a period whose mean or average length is 27 days 7 hours 43.2 minutes, but in consequence of her motion in common with the earth around the sun, the mean duration of the lunar month—that is, the time from new moon to new moon—is 29 days 12 hours 44.05 minutes, which is called the moon's synodical period.

A vastly improved Kingston High School gridiron machine ran rampant through an injury-riddled Poughkeepsie eleven Saturday, overwhelming the Bridge Cityites by the score of 38-0. Striking with cyclonic force, the Klammen capitalized on their potential greatness by rolling up one of the most impressive point-totals in recent K.H.S. history. Completely dominating the afternoon's activity, the Maroon scored twice in quick succession in the first quarter and injected a touchdown at regular intervals thereafter.

With a good-sized attendance on hand at the canvas-enclosed Fair Grounds, the locals put on a devastating display of pigskin tactics to completely bowlder the down-river boys. Poughkeepsie, reeling under an amazing series of injuries, was helpless to cope with the brilliant running attack of the local charges and straggled off the field, a very dejected outfit.

It was the third straight setback for Coach Kelly's unit and the second victory for the Maroon and White. The Maroon, with all cylinders clicking in perfect harmony, put on a touchdown parade on six occasions amid wild acclaim from the Kingston stands.

Tommy Maines led the local leather-lungers down the glory road by ringing up three touchdowns for his day's work. Captain Don Murphy, Harry Wilber and Jimmy Ashdown also contributed scoring dashes to the Maroon tallying fund.

Maines paced the home town athletes by turning in a spectacular exhibition of broken-field running and capped his efforts by crossing the bar on three instances. Tommy plunged over the initial tally, got away on a 23 yard jaunt for his second and returned to the fray to race 36 yards on a neat hike for the 18th marker.

A fair day's work in any league, Captain Murphy careened through right guard for the "big six" and Harry Wilber outpaced the secondary on a prance around right end to register. Jimmy Ashdown, little sub quarter, brought the crowd to their feet by taking off on a wide end sweep to speed 28 yards for his entrance cord in the touchdown union.

Arnie "Jabbo" Nyulassy came through with a sparkling performance of wingmanship to feature the line play. "Jab" spent most of the afternoon in the visiting backfield, made a brilliant clutch of a Mosher pass, and topped his fondlest hopes when he broke away on an end-round play to score an extra point. Others turning in noteworthy deeds were Rifenbary, Lou Volght, "Gal" Studer, and in fact, the entire front wall deserves commendation. Brilliant blocking by the aforementioned line made possible most of the long gains reeled off.

Standing out in a sporadic Bridge City attack were the efforts of Forrest "Snooks" Willis, dusky speedster, and "Chubby" Werber, pile-driving plunger. Willis broke away on several of his patented end sweeps for substantial gains, including a spectacular 20 yard dash from the end-zone on a fake kick. Werber, husky fullback, wreaked quite a bit of havoc with the local line during the second quarter in a series of smashing plunges. "Bucky" Patrice, "Duke" West, and Captain O'Brien also flashed on occasions.

With a substantial margin of safety, Coach Kias made frequent substitutions in the latter stages of the fray and most of the regulars watched the game terminate from the well-earned haven of the bench.

Wasps Lose, 54-0, To Powerful Team At Sing Sing Prison

Warden Lewis E. Lawes' Sing Sing Black Sheep gave the Harris Brown Yellow Jackets a taste of the third degree, Sunday, before about 500 grid fans behind the walls of the Big House on the lower Hudson, trouncing them by the overwhelming score of 54-0.

Yesterday, the Bees played one of the best teams ever developed at the state battle, and took plenty of physical punishment as they tried to halt the attack of the Green and White huskies, whose lineup was freshened now and then by reserves.

The drubbing was a terrible setback to Coach Jerry Dann's grid-bers, one of the best collections ever assembled under the Yellow Jacket banner, but losing to Sing Sing was considered no disgrace by Kingstonians who saw the duel. It was the consensus of opinion that the Black Sheep could have overpowered any of the country's leading professional clubs Sunday the way they played.

Led by "Moon" Byrd, negro backfield flash, who faced the Jackets on several other dates along with Alabama Pitts, now out in the world, the Sheep ball carrying division romped over the field seemingly at will to build up the lopsided score. McLaughlin and Winkler, two other dusky pigskin toters, worked well with Myrd in slaughtering the Richfielders.

Coach Johnny Law's brigade rolled up 27 points in the first quarter, and from then on there was no doubt as to which club would be victorious. The insiders tore through like tigers on the offensive and bungled up the trick plays of the Jackets on the defense.

By hard driving the Sheep clicked off gains of 67, 61 and 46 yards for their first three touchdowns, and near the end of the opening quarter, Byrd ripped off 61 yards. He broke away near his own 39 yard stripe, broke through the Bees and tore down the grid to go over the goal line standing up.

Sing Sing rolled up 18 first downs to three for Kingston. Eddie Minasian made one of Kingston's and Mac Tiano the other two. "Cowboy" Every did outstanding work on the Waap defensive.

Yesterday's setback was the first of the season for the Jackets, who defeated Newburgh 2-0 in their opening game and the Albany Knickerbockers, 6-0, in the second.

Rainy Weather Halts Glider Trials

Large Gallery Present

The flights, especially in the latter part of the day, were witnessed by a large gallery, several hundred people making the trip up the mountain, the field near the starting point being lined several deep with interested fans and spectators. Among the many cars parked near the field, were many bearing license plates from New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and other states as well as from New York. Those who attempted to negotiate the steep road which leads to the Meenahga House, early in the day, experienced difficulty. The road is not only steep, but was slippery from the rain and at one time Sunday morning some 30 cars were stalled along the roadway. Conditions had improved, however, by afternoon, and later visitors had little trouble.

Among those who had been expected to take part in the meet were Richard C. duPont of Wilmington, Delaware, with his new high performance sailplane, and Chester Decker, national soaring champion for 1936.

duPont flew up from New York in his airplane Sunday morning, going first to Philadelphia and bringing with him Theodore Bellak of Philadelphia, who is interested in glider construction, and Edward Roberts of Philadelphia, a representative of the Brown Motor Co., which manufactures small motors for power gliders. Mr. duPont took pictures from the air of the mountain in the vicinity of the soaring field and in the neighborhood of Sam's Point, where it is proposed to establish a soaring field if federal aid can be secured.

Visits Field
The duPont party landed at the Wurtsboro airport, where they were met by Leland P. Pulling and William C. Rose of Ellenville, and taken to the Meenahga field. Mr. Pulling is one of the most active members of the Noonday Club committee, which has had charge of the local arrangements for the meet and Mr. Rose is a member of the Ellenville village committee actively interested in promoting soaring activities in that section. The party returned to New York this morning.

Mr. Pulling stated that Mr. duPont expressed himself as greatly pleased with the Shawangunk mountain location as having great possibilities as a soaring field and compared it very favorably with fields in Virginia. He expressed the opinion that comparatively little development of the contemplated site near Sam's Point would be necessary to put it into shape for soaring field purposes. Mr. duPont, who is one of the outstanding exponents of soaring in this country, recently returned from a trip to Germany, where the art has been very highly developed.

Guests of Club.

Sunday evening, preceding a meeting of the executive committee of the Soaring Society of America, the members present were the guests of the evening committee of the Ellenville Noonday Club at a dinner held at the Wayside Inn, Ellenville. Members of the executive committee present were Richard C. duPont, chairman, Mrs. Warren E. Eaton of Norwich and Charles H. Gale of New York city. Several other members who had planned to be present were unable to attend. Others present at the dinner were Theodore Bellak of Philadelphia, who plans to go in the near future to Goepfingen, Germany, to serve an apprenticeship at the glider factory there, Edward Roberts of Philadelphia; Supervisor Futhill McDowell, Leland P. Pulling and C. D. Raymond, committee from the Noonday Club, and Bert H. Terwilliger and William C. Rose, representing the village. William Sullivan, who has been an interested attendant at gliding events at Ellenville, with Mrs. Sullivan, were also among the dinner guests.

Following the dinner members of the executive committee of the Soaring Society met for a discussion of business matters connected with the society.

Mr. Pulling stated Sunday that plans are being made for another soaring meet in April, possibly for two meets in the spring, preliminary to the national meet to be held at Elmira in July.

Are Pleased

Visiting pilots and members of the soaring associations present expressed themselves as highly pleased with the treatment they had received and the arrangements that had been made for the meet. They were particularly pleased with the improvement that had been made at the Meenahga field, where Mr. Raymond had had a gang of men busy cutting down a large number of trees along one side of the field which at previous meets had threatened ships taking off. The removal of the trees makes it unnecessary for pilots to raise the ships at such an abrupt angle at the take-off and does away with much of the risk of ships hitting the trees before gaining altitude, with disastrous consequences to both ships and pilots.

CRISK PAYS $25 FINE FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Ladislau Crisk, 19, of East Kingston was arrested Saturday at New Paltz by Corporal Norman Baker and Trooper Andrew Klein following an accident which took place near the Normal School in the village. The arrest was made on complaint of Bernard Kozlowski of Murray street whose machine was damaged in a collision. The complainant charged that he was driving toward Kingston and the Crisk machine was being operated in a southerly direction. The machines sideswiped on a turn.

None of the occupants were injured, but the machines were damaged.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. V. Dayton the defendant paid a $25 fine for reckless driving.

Inquest in Death Of Helena Betcher

Scarsdale, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Investigators today counted on an inquest, scheduled later this week, to clear away the last trace of mystery from the death of brunette Helena Betcher, whose body was found Saturday in a gully beside the New York Central Railroad tracks.

Most officials were convinced the 34-year-old business woman either jumped or fell from the train on which she was traveling for a visit with friends in Chatham.

There were a couple angles they wanted cleared up a little more fully, however, before completely discarding the theory that she might have been shoved from a northbound train on the Harlem Division.

One of these was the point that none of the conductors could recall finding a door open while the train was in motion. Another was a report from Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester County medical examiner, that a mark on her skull might have been caused by a blow.

Offsetting the closed door question, police considered that the train's momentum might have slammed shut the door through which Miss Betcher plunged.

Frank Westover, a New York Central trainman, at whose home she was to be a guest, identified the body yesterday. He was among those who discounted the theory that she had jumped from the train.

"She had no reason to commit suicide," he said tersely.

The girl's father, the Rev. J. A.

Betcher, a retired army chaplain, of Lincoln, Ill., was quoted by the New York American as saying "I am convinced my daughter fell from the train as it was moving."

Conductor A. R. Barrett recalled Miss Betcher, who was vice president of a surgical and medical supply firm, appeared nervous when he collected her ticket. He said she was smoking and he asked her to move to the smoking compartment; she arose to comply and he did not see her again. On this basis, police theorized she might have fallen from the platform while finishing her smoke.

Freshness always has Charm!

FRESHNESS in a cigarette is as important as freshness in a tulle gown. Tobacco loses much of its appeal when dry or soggy.

To women smokers a FRESH cigarette has a special appeal. A truly fresh cigarette leaves no unpleasant odor in fabrics or on the breath, which accounts for the ever-growing preference women are showing for Double-Mellow O. G. That double Cellophane wrapping keeps the cigarettes strictly fresh... factory-fresh in any climate, anywhere.

But the BIG double-mellow reason is the prize crop tobacco... with a delightful double-mellow flavor and fragrance that win both "her and him!"
